

The CDC Managing Epilepsy Well Network (MEW)
in partnership with the Epilepsy Foundation and CDC's Prevention Research Centers Program

Webinar Presentation

New Community-based Programs and e-tools for Depression Treatment and Epilepsy Self-management

MEW researchers have found that e-tools and in-home counseling can reduce depression and improve self-management among people with epilepsy. These studies and other research findings on these topics are published in the November issue of Epilepsy & Behavior. Join the authors, the journal's editor-in-chief, and other health professionals interested in epilepsy support in reviewing the results and discussing their implications.

Tuesday, November 16, 2010
2 p.m. to 3 p.m. (EDT)

Topics and Presenters:

What These Studies Mean for People With Epilepsy

Steven Schachter, MD,
editor-in-chief of Epilepsy & Behavior,
and professor of neurology at Harvard Medical School.

Epilepsy Management: Today's New Tools and Tactics

MEW researchers from participating Prevention Research Centers at Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia; University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston; University of Washington in Seattle; and University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.
